Abstract

This report records 22 case studies on direct actions taken by traditional and religious leaders to improve the delivery of primary school education in the six ESSPIN states; Enugu, Lagos, Kwara, Kaduna, Kano and Jigawa exceeding target for the reporting period.

The studies highlight the areas of successes resulting from partnership between traditional and religious rulers, civil society organisations, SBMCs and the state government to improve schools. Consolidation work on school based management committee (SBMC) development began in 2014 when DfID granted ESSPIN a 2 year programme extension, and the consolidation activities placed more emphasis on voice and accountability, particularly the voice of women and children SBMC committees, SBMCs themselves, and the traditional and religious leaders.

Much focus has been on developing community capacity to engage in and take action for school improvement including making request to government for improving education for all children. As a result, these case studies are rooted in reflecting how voice, empowerment and accountability have been improved during the reporting period.

Introduction

Milestone: 2 case studies from each of 6 states on direct actions taken by traditional/religious leaders following participation in LGEA forums.

Milestone delivered and exceeded: 22 case studies from 6 states on direct actions taken by traditional and religious leaders.

1. ESSPIN's approach integrates community participation through SBMCs as one strand of its efforts to support states to improve schools and school governance in a sustainable manner. It recognizes that communities if organized and informed are able to play a key role in making sustainable positive contributions to promoting equity, children's access to school, to teaching quality and pupils' learning achievement. Over the last 8 years, ESSPIN has supported Government, particularly the SUBEB Department of Social Mobilisation, as the 'institutional home' of the SBMC, to work in partnership with Civil Society to develop SBMC capacity to implement roles and responsibilities set out in state-specific SBMC policy guidelines.
2. Following research conducted in 2009¹ which highlighted that SBMCs were not working well, ESSPIN has provided technical support to the 6 states in which it operates (Kano, Jigawa, Kaduna, Lagos, Enugu and Kwara), through the CSO-Government Partnership (CGP) to establish, train and mentor SBMCs over time strengthening the links between communities, schools and local government, and improving voice and accountability at school and community level.
3. As SBMCs developed and evidence grew to demonstrate that communities, through SBMCs, could articulate their concerns and play a strong role in school improvement, ESSPIN supported the bringing together of a broad forum of all SBMCs in one LGEA as a platform for community voice and participation in education decision-making. ESSPIN also supported SBMCs, via the CSO-Government Partnership (CGP) with basic capacity development on advocacy and presentational skills to enable them to make the most of the opportunity for community voice afforded by the forum. The LGEA-SBMC forums have resulted in stronger partnership between community and government and the establishment of a mechanism through which community demand for quality inclusive education is articulated. It has also resulted particularly in stronger voice for marginalised and commonly excluded groups. (LGEA Milestone Report, July 2015). Traditional and religious rulers have been part of these forums as key players in supporting SBMCs to develop strategies to improve education in local governments. As rulers of the communities, they hold power and influence to advocate and act on matters for the betterment of the communities which they govern. The evidence from implementing shows that traditional and religious rulers have a key role to play in influencing change at school and community level. Aside from meeting as part of the broader SBMC at the cluster levels, they also form part of the LGEA forums, as well as ESSPIN support during the consolidation with specific traditional and religious leaders meetings across all LGEAs with the objectives of understanding the issues affecting children's education, understanding their roles in improving the school environment, teaching and learning in schools and actualizing sustainable strategies.

4. Great importance is attached to the participation and voice of traditional and religious leaders, as the 'gatekeepers' of community values and the influence they can bear, in supporting and advocating for quality, inclusive basic education.
5. Thus, the objective of this report is to record some of the actions taken following the forums and since the consolidation work began in 2014. Using case studies derived from in-depth interviews with traditional rulers, religious leaders, Social Mobilisation Officers, CSO officers, SBMC chairmen and other bodies at the local governments, this report provides examples of the various contributions made by traditional and religious leaders following ESSPIN's capacity building support received at cluster level, LGEA forums and the traditional and religious leaders workshops.
6. Voice and accountability is the barometer for measuring the ability of members of communities to secure their rights, make demands on the state and ultimately achieve better development outcomes. ESSPIN's supports the improvement of voice and accountability interventions as a strategy to support excluded groups to build the capacity they need to exercise tangible control over their own development, make demand and hold decision makers to account.

Case Studies

Lagos State

7. Lagos state has 20 LGEAs. Reports and interactions with the traditional and religious leaders indicates that progress has been made in supporting their communities. Discussions revealed that they have contributed in various degrees to the issues which affect child education in the local governments ranging from advocacy issues such as gender inclusion and the enrollment and retention of pregnant and disabled pupils to security issues such as child abuse, extreme corporal punishment and child labour. Traditional and religious leaders have also been active in addressing the lack of infrastructure, facilities and teachers in schools. The below four case studies are selected samples of the numerous good works done by these stakeholders in Lagos since the LGEA forums. The case studies narrated in this report were taken from Mushin, Kosofe and Ojo LGEAs.

LGEA Forum Overview:

8. The SBMC-LGEA forums for Lagos state were held in November 2015. Attendance was around 658 people with many traditional leaders present. The forum also recorded a large turnout of both the clergy and the Muslim scholars and gave room for interactive session with all key educational stakeholders, such as the Head teachers, SBMC Chairmen, Pastors, and Imams for positive results on educational issues facing their wards and LGEAs. The issues raised included:
 - Inadequate qualified teaching personnel in most primary schools
 - Lack of electricity supply to many schools
 - Recreational facilities not available for the use of children
 - Lack of water and sanitation
 - Lack of toilets in schools
 - Teachers' and pupils' furniture not enough in all schools
 - Teaching and learning materials
 - Teenage pregnancy, enrolment, retention and completion
 - Gender and inclusive issues
 - Menace of gang boys
 - Child abuse and rape
 - Schools land encroachment
 - Children's access to schools in the riverine communities
9. By the end of the forum the religious leaders promised to do their part in impacting knowledge in pupils to behave well in school and also sensitize their congregations on the importance of education in an overall effort to raise community support for schools. The traditional leaders also promised to sensitize the community and other stakeholders to help the schools financially.

Case Study 1: Preventing Child Labour. Ori-Odi Olowo, Mushin LGEA

Interview with: Mrs Kehinde Ladipo; HOS Social Mobilisation, Mushin LGEA and Mrs Kemi Adewuyi; Programme Officer Quality Life Support Initiative (QLSI)

Thanks to Chief Adeshina Erinfolami, the Baale of Ori-Odi Olowo, Nurat Adefila now attends secondary school. She was previously hawking in the market on behalf of her guardian.

10. Chief Adeshina Erinfolami, the Baale of Ori-Odi Olowo in Mushin LGEA was one of the traditional leaders who attended the last SBMC-LGEA Forum held in November 2015. After the programme, he noticed that one of the children in his community; Nurat Adefila who had completed Primary 6 at Muslim Mission Primary School had stopped going to school. Instead, she was hawking selling goods for her guardian in the market during school hours. He queried the guardian and discovered the girl could not go to secondary school because her parents and guardian were poor and could not afford to provide necessary school materials. The Baale expressed his concerns about Nurat to Mrs. Ladipo, the HOS Social Mobilization. After he had done this, the following steps were taken by the Baale, the SBMC, Nurat's mother and the HOS to ensure that Nurat returns to school;
 - The group visited the Muslim Mission Primary school to see the head teacher.
 - Photocopies of the primary 6 register, log book and schedule from the exam board where Nurat's name appeared were made for the 2015/2016 session.
 - The group visited Ilupeju Junior Secondary School, where Nurat had been posted to see the Principal.
 - Nurat resumed fully to JSS 1 for 2015/2016 session. The Baale paid for everything she needed: School uniform, sandals, stationery and text books.
11. Nurat before entry into secondary school was unhappy anytime she saw her former school mates. She is now very happy, hardworking and ready to assist her guardian as needed. Nurat's guardian who is very grateful to the Baale for supporting Nurat back into education, has equally gained an increased appreciation for the value of community support and importance of education.
12. The Baale has now gained more popularity in the community. The community love him and seek his counsel more than they did in the past on issues hindering children's education. The Baale said, "I am happy with what I have done. I wish to do more. My people respect me more than before. I thank God". (Chief Adeshina Erinfolami, the Baale of Ori-Odi Olowo noted by HOS Mrs Beatrice Opadoyin). Nurat's mother was very delighted. In her gratitude to the Baale for giving her child a future, she shared the story with the entire community and they in turn were reminded of the importance of education particularly for the girl child. They are now more conscious of the role of SBMCs in their schools.

Case Study 2: Infrastructure Building. Anthony, Kosofe LGEA

Interview with; Mrs Raheemot Banjo; HOS Kosofe LGEA and Mr Thomson Akan; Programme Officer LYNX

Anthony Model Primary School situated at Ajao Estate in Anthony village, Kosofe Local Government, was previously vandalized by hoodlums due to the schools fallen fence. The Redeemed Christian Church of God (RCCG) has erected the fence, creating a safe and more conducive environment, protecting both pupils and the school's infrastructure.

13. Anthony Model Primary School shares a fence with the only secondary school in the community, Ajao Estate Secondary School. The school has a neat compound, computer center, recreational center and qualified teachers, comparable to a good private school in the environment.
14. In the course of SBMC training with the traditional and religious leaders of Kosofe, the representatives of Anthony traditional and religious leaders of the community raised an alarm that the shared fence had collapsed due to flooding.

15. As a result of the fallen fence the school experienced break ins and looting of expensive computers, nursery desks and chairs. The school was also easily littered by the general public who found it easy to hang around the premises. Subsequently, the attendance of pupils plummeted with parents being afraid of their children's safety and the children in turn preferring to stay at home away from abuse by some of the hoodlums who were hanging around the school premises.
16. The situation was aired to the SBMC, LGEA and SUBEB, and the SBMC of Anthony Model primary school involved the parent's forum of both schools sharing the fence to find a solution for re-building it. Lead by Mr Odeyemi, Chairman of the SBMC who also heads a church in the community, the fence was rebuilt. Mr Odeyemi sought help from other religious leaders in the area, particularly drawing from his network within the church community and raised N75, 000 from the Redeemed Christian Church of God which he heads.
17. Linking the Youth of Nigeria, through Exchange (LYNX) is the CSO working with Somolu and Kosofe LGEA. Mr Thomson Akan, the Programme Officer was present at the LGEA forum and spoke extensively with Mr Odeyemi concerning the fallen fence providing an advisory and supervisory role whilst visiting the construction premises on a regular basis during the rebuilding of the fence.
18. As a result of reconstructing the fence, school attendance has normalised and there has been new enrollment of pupils bringing the population of the school students to a total of 590 pupils (328 female and 272 male). The number of pupils was previously 400 (202 female and 198 male). The pupils are visibly happier in school as they feel safer, enjoying the security provided by the new fence. Their families are also happy with the new construction which has spurred an interest towards the school and its activities by the general community at large.

Case Study 3: Waste Management. Somolu LGEA

Interview with Mrs B.O Ogunleye; HOS Social Mobilisation, Somolu LGEA and Mr Thomson Akan; Programme Officer Linking the Youth of Nigeria, through Exchange (LYNX)

Baale Chief Waheed Hassan Owodunni Agiri ensured that pupils in his LGEA could learn in a conducive, odour and waste free environment.

19. During the last LGEA forum for Somolu LGEA one of the pupils from children committee from Alubarikar primary school complained that waste had not been cleared from the school premises for quite some time. As a result the students were being distracted by foul smells and the unsightly presence of rubbish in the school environment. The compound in subject is shared by three primary schools; Alubarikar, Temple and SLG primary. The state waste management board had stopped clearing the school bins as the school authority had not paid the bills for previous clearing. The education secretary for Somolu Mr A.B Oyatope, following the student's complaint liaised with the Baale Chief Waheed Hassan Owodunni Agiri to join efforts to pay the outstanding clearing bills. Within a week the Baale and ES paid out of their pockets to clear the bill (roughly about N7000).
20. They promised to continue paying for the waste management clearing where the school is unable to do so. Attendance has since returned to normal with the new positive development as some students had stayed away from school, bothered by odor from the heaps of waste near their classrooms.

21. Lynx is the CSO working closely with Somolu LGEA. Mr Thomson Akan, the Programme Officer of this CSO was closely involved with the waste clearing issue. He played an advisory role linking the Baale and school head teacher and also visited the school premise when the waste was being cleared.

Case Study 4: Teacher Deployment. Irewe, Ojo LGEA

Interview Mrs O.A Okedara; Head of Section at the Social Mobilization Section, Ojo LGEA

The Osolu of Iyewe kingdom; Oba Durosinimi Abideen employed teachers to cater for the teacher shortages across schools in the Riverine communities.

22. Following the LGEA forum, in November 2015, the Osolu of Iyewe kingdom, Oba Durosinimi Abideen employed 20 teachers to fill up the teacher shortage in the riverine schools, allocating a total of N300,000 at N15,000 per head being paid to the new teachers for each calendar month. The teachers were deployed in the following schools:
- Irewe: 6 teachers
 - Okoludu: 3 teachers
 - Alagutan: 1 teacher
 - Taffi: 4 teachers
 - Moba sea beach: 2 teachers
 - Salvation Army: 1 teacher
 - Igbo Oja: 1 teacher
 - Ponpoku: 2 teachers
23. A total of 20 teachers were deployed.
24. The increase of teachers raised the population of students in all the riverine schools listed above as families were confident to enroll their children in school given the new staff capacity. The newly recruited teachers are community members and NCE certificate holders currently being enlisted to be recruited by the Lagos State Government.
25. The Osolu of Irewe kingdom, Oba Durosinimi Abideen also renovated staff quarters for Irewe primary school which is located at the city of the Oba so that teachers could stay near the schools and not worry about the cost and cumbersome process of crossing the lagoon on a daily basis. This improved punctuality of both students and teachers and overall efficiency in teaching and learning.

Enugu State

26. Enugu state has 17 LGEAs. The clergy has been one of the corner stones of communities across the eastern parts of Nigeria right from the coming of the Roman Catholic Church in the beginning of the 20th century. The clergy supports and advocates on the development of communities particularly the education of young children. Traditional rulers have also been known to be active in Enugu state acting on the deep rooted culture of the Igbos to take pride and ownership of their lands and support all that concerns the members of their communities. This report covers three case studies from Udi and Nsukka LGEAs, noting samples of the numerous works which religious bodies and traditional rulers have done across the various communities in Enugu state.

LGEA Forum Overview:

27. The SBMC-LGEA Forums took place at Enugu East LGA on the 24th and Uzo-Uwani LGA on the 26th of November 2015 and focused on challenging traditional rulers and the general SBMC into positive action to support schools. The issues raised included:

- Inadequate classroom blocks
- Insecurity
- Dilapidated school structures
- Inadequate teachers/ trained teachers
- Corporal punishment
- Lack of water
- Lack of toilet facilities
- Lack of recreational facilities
- Lack of modern teaching aids
- Handling of physically and mentally challenged pupils

28. As a result of the forum, the traditional and religious leaders present were reminded that they are also among the major stakeholders in education improvement in their communities and promised to actively engage with SBMC to improve education delivery.

Case Study 1: Infrastructure Building. Amokwe, Udi LGEA

Interview with: Chief Dennis Nebo; Amokwe SBMC Chairman, Mr Paul Aneke; Town Union President, Mr Usman Udeoji and Mrs Ani Winifred; Amokwe SMOs, Mrs Agnes Ozoemena; School HM, Chief Richard Ogbuefi; PTA chairman and Mrs Grace Ozioko; Yodel Programme Manager

Igwe N.P Oleje Chinenye Eze and the community Reverend Father Anthony Mike erected quality buildings to accommodate and enhance pupil learning in South West Primary School, Amokwe.

29. His royal highness Igwe N.P Oleje Chinenye Eze 1 of Uwani Amokwe and Community Reverend Father Anthony Mecha have done a lot for the primary school in their community. South West Primary School Amokwe was previously highly congested due to shortage of classrooms. Rev. Mecha built the first structure which is a block of three classrooms. This action led to the Igwe building another block of two classrooms with convenience toilets and a third room for the head teacher's office.
30. Following these developments, the school pupil population has increased from 185 pupils to 257 (142 males and 115 females). The pupil's behavior towards learning has also greatly improved as they are now more positive to take on new tasks daily. Reverend Mecha also conducts periodic sessions with the students teaching them how to behave well in school. These sessions have helped to raise their self-esteem and awareness of good conduct in school and at home.
31. The Youth Resource Development, Education and Leadership Center for Africa (Yordel) is the CSO working closely with Amokwe community. Mrs Grace Ozioko the Programme Manager for Yodel expressed her joy for the works of the Igwe and Reverend father in this school. Her role leading to the construction of extra classrooms was calling for a meeting with the Igwe, community SBMC and later on the Reverend father to spur their attention towards the dilapidated and congested state of south-west primary school, calling for their support with re-building. She is glad to see that her efforts paid off. Aside from the classroom Father Mecha has supported the school pupils with materials for summer school and the Igwe provided

Case Study 2: Advocacy for Inclusive Education/ School Equipment Supply. Isiakpu, Nsukka LGEA

Interviews : Dr Ambassador Patrick .P. Okolo Chike Nweze; Igwe of Isiakpu Nsukka, Dr Patricia Agu; SMO for Povinna, Mrs Arji Pauline; HM Community Primary School Isiaku, Sylvester Onyia; Programme Officer YEHCHR

Dr Ambassador Patrick .P. Okolo Chike Nweze Igwe of Isiakpu is highly appreciated by his community members for the works he has done towards the development of the primary school in his community.

32. The Igwe plays both a financial role with his contributions to the school infrastructure as well as an advisory role to the SBMC and community at large, sensitizing them of the importance of community ownership regarding the successful delivery of education. Aside from his financial contributions towards school facilities, the Igwe frequently visits the community primary school to ensure that teachers and pupils are punctual and well behaved. He also sensitizes the teachers on the importance of inclusive education. As a result, Community Primary School (CPS) Isiaku accommodates disabled children with learning difficulties and records an improvement in their general health, conduct and development.

33. The Igwe has supported with infrastructure development of the school including;
- The construction of road speed bumps leading to the school gate
 - Putting up a sign post to ease location of the school
 - Purchase of the school band set
 - Purchase of the school bell
 - Purchase of 200 wooden chairs and some desks
34. The community Anglican church headed by Reverend Emeka Ezea has also been paying for grass cutting of the school grounds for the past one year. Overall the former population of pupils which was 200 has now risen to 315 (156 male and 159 female). Student behavior is more positive as a result of the new developments. The pupils are now more punctual to school, turning up bright and ready to learn and wearing clean uniforms. The student performance is at an all-time high. One of the boys who recently graduated from primary six; Uchenna Ezemmah wrote an award winning book, acknowledging the excellent teaching he received from his teacher at CPS.
35. Mrs Patricia Agu the SMO for Poverty in Africa Initiative (Povvina), the CSO working with this community expressed her gratitude that the community have an active Igwe who is always ready to participate in activities for the betterment of education. Povvina plays a mentoring and advisory role to the Igwe and also the SBMC, supporting them in resource mobilization and educating their community members to join forces towards improving the local schools in Nsukka.

Case Study 3: Toilet Facilities. Iheaka, Igbo-Eze South LGEA

Interviews: Mrs Ukuweze Florence; Assistant HM Central School Iheaka, Mrs Felicia Nwodo and Mr Eke Bernard; SMOs for Igbo-Eze, Sylvester Onyia; Programme Officer YEHCHR and Igwe Dr C.C Nnamani

Thanks to Igwe Dr C.C Nnamani, Central school Iheaka now has a Head Master's office block and modern toilet for its pupils to use.

36. The Igwe mobilized funds from PDP chairman for Enugu State, Mr Ikeje Asogwa to build a block for the Head Masters office where there was none before. He also engaged the same politician to support with the building of a small block of toilets for the schools pupils.
37. Igwe CC Nnamani is active in his community. He visits the community school every few days to monitor the general conduct and punctuality of pupils and teachers. Central school Iheaka shares the same compound with Community Primary School (CPS) both which are under the Igwe's supervision.
38. As a result of the new toilet there have been new school enrolments with the current population of Central School now being 347 (162 Male and 185 female), with the majority of the new students coming from private schools. The population was previously just over 200. The pupil's attitudes have been noticeably more positive with the erection of the new toilet facilities as they now stay in class to learn. They were previously leaving school for long periods in the name of going to the bush to ease themselves or looking for nearby toilet facilities.

39. The Holy Trinity Parish, Igbo-Eze's community church has also been actively supporting the school. The church recently came on the school site with carpenters to repair all the broken furniture in the classrooms and head teacher's office. Holy Trinity Parish actively engages with the SBMC to explore fund raising strategies for supporting primary education at Igbo-Eze.
40. Youth Education on Human Rights and Civil Responsibilities (YEHCHR) is the CSO affiliated with Igbo-Eze LGA. Mr Sylvester Onyia the Programme Officer has been very engaged with this community. Mobilising funds from the SBMC and advising the Igwe on infrastructure development and education delivery at the community schools. He is happy with the recent developments and thinks the SBMC in this community are actively engaging with issues concerning education and displaying a positive attitude towards mobilising the community to continue to contribute and do more.

Kwara State

41. Kwara state has 16 LGEAs. Known for placing a high emphasis on education since its inception, SUBEB and the local government authorities in Kwara actively engage the state to provide adequate teachers and the necessary materials for local schools. Unfortunately, due to funding gaps, Kwara state government has not adequately met this need. As a result the issue of teacher shortage, deployment especially to the rural schools and non-payment of teacher salary continues to plague most of the schools at the local governments. Despite the odds, the religious and traditional bodies, often with the support of the SBMC at large have proactively responded by hiring and pay part-time teachers out of pocket. They also continue to make immense contributions to improve access, equity, quality and physical infrastructure of their community schools.

LGEA Forum Overview

42. On Tuesday 11th August 2015 a forum was held with 5 persons each drawn from the 46 engaged LGEA schools in Offa Local government made up of: one traditional ruler, two religious leaders, the SBMC Chairman and the head teacher. The participants were trained at cluster levels and merged together to eventually form the 1st forum meeting of Offa LGEA traditional and religious leaders. Executives of the LGEA SBMC central committee were also part of the forum.
43. The forum which had the main objective of identifying advocacy issues in the LGEAs schools and coming up with strategies to tackle these issues was well attended by 212 participants. There was a huge turnout of traditional and religious leaders and the Oba of Offa was adequately represented by his selected high chiefs across the various districts of Offa LGA.
44. The advocacy issues raised in the clusters bordered largely on inadequate teachers, lack of furniture in the classrooms, inadequate classrooms, no computer laboratory, and lack of security among others. The issue of toilets as well as the provision of portable water were also highlighted by most of the schools.
45. On the 17th of Dec 2015 a second community forum was held in Offa grammar school, well attended by the LGA SBMC chairmen, the Education secretary, Imams from the Muslim communities, Pastors from various churches and Chiefs from the wards. The ward chiefs promised to continue to support and mobilise their respective SBMCs. (Living Care, Community Development Foundation, End of Tranche 1 Report).
46. In the same month of December 2015, the LGEA forum was held in Isin LGEA. The turnout was a total of 157, largely women. Interviews: Mr Arowolo Gbenga Simon; SMO, Mrs Ibrahim F.F; Head teacher of Iyeru Okin Special Needs School, Mr Adewoye Olusesan; CEO of Living Care Community Development Foundation

Thanks to Imam Alhaji Hussein Alfa Muhudeen, a new site has been acquired to build the special needs school in Iyeru Okin, Offa LGEA.

47. The school for special needs pupils in Iyeru Okin did not have a permanent site. The school which has a current population of 68 pupils (37 male and 31 female) holds in a small block on the site of Taodeen primary school also in Offa LGEA. A land owner in the community had passed away and the community Imam, Alhaji Hussein Alfa Muhudeen was invited to support the family in sharing the deceased's property. The Imam convinced the family to allocate one plot of land which was owned by the deceased to the special needs school. They did so and the school now has a permanent site to commence building. The SBMC in this community are also raising funds to purchase the plot of land which is next to the plot given by the family so they can double it to build a spacious enough school. The cost of the second plot is approximately N450, 000 which is valued around the same as the first plot. The total dimensions of the two plots once attained will be 50 x 100 feet.

48. The families of pupils at Iyeru Okin special needs school are very happy about the land acquisition as it would mean that their children who are physically and mentally challenged can learn in a private and more spacious area where they can feel free to be themselves. The pupils are also glad about the new development. Since enrolment most of the pupils are now able to read and write. Their general behaviour has also tremendously improved.

Case Study 2: School Land Protection. Balogun, Offa LGEA

Interview: Mr Ezekiel J.O; Head teacher School 1 St. James Primary School

Chief Akodemade, the Ward head of Balogun, with the joint effort of the Ofala of Offa, the police, and members of Christ Apostolic Church, ensured that St James Primary school was not evoked from its land.

49. St James Primary school has a total population of 148 pupils (70 male and 78 female). There was a land dispute over the school's grounds between the school and the community. In the sixties many families in this community gave away land they owned to the churches. The churches in turn gave the land for building schools. For economic reasons there have been cases of the families who originally owned the lands returning to collect them back from the church/school to sell them. This was the case with St James Primary School. Fortunately, Chief Akodemade, the Ward head of Balogun Ward where the school is located, intervened by writing a letter to the palace, and involving the police. With the support of the Ofala and police the family were cautioned to leave the land for St James Primary school. The case has now been resolved.
50. Christ Apostolic Church, the parent church of St. James primary headed by Pastor J.O Amaka have gone further to support the school by building a block fence around it to secure the land and shield the school from trespassers.

51. St James Primary School students have been visibly happier since the land acquisition issue was settled. Their overall school performance has improved. The families of pupils in this school are very grateful to Chief Akodemade for his proactivity in protecting the rights of their children. Collectively, the Balogun community has been more supportive of the SBMC as a result of all the good works of the Ward head and Christ Apostolic Church.

53. Living care is the CSO working with Offa LGEA. Mr Adewoye Olusesan, the CEO of living care was very happy to contribute to the case studies. He clarified the role of living care in Offa LGEA. Aside from conducting training to build capacity of the SBMC, the CSO acts as an interlink between schools and various philanthropists and other members of the community who can advocate the needs of schools. For example, in advising SBMC to solicit the help of traditional and religious leaders during the forum held in December 2015, the CSO was able to stir the commitment from the traditional rulers which prompted Imam Hussein Alfa Muhudeen to influence the family that gave land to the special needs school at Iyeru okin. The CSO also acts as an interlink between the traditional religious leaders and the community, pointing out specific areas of needs to the latter to support the schools in the communities which they govern. The Ajegunle community at Offa is particularly grateful to Living Care for mobilizing the SBMC and community at large towards helping Rofiat Abiodun, A pupil at Ajegunle primary school to gain her eye sight as the community contributed towards a cataract removal surgery for her eyes.

Alhaji Abubakar Garba Mohammed ensured that pupils in Lere are punctual to school.

74. Alhaji Abubakar Garba Mohamed is the District Head of Lere. He has been actively ensuring that all children within school age are in school. This has been a herculean task as so many children within the community are Muslims who have to attend Islamiya (Muslim school) in the morning before school. Sule Ibrahim a pupil of Lere Central Primary School was enduring punishments for coming late to school due to attending Islamiyah. He explained to the teacher that the reason why he comes late to school is as a result of attending Islamiyah early mornings and finishing at 7:30am. The class teacher Mallam Abdulaziz a member of the SBMC representing National Union of Teachers took up the matter with the head teacher of the School. Having gone through the SBMC training on conflict resolution, the head teacher invited the SBMC members of the School for a meeting. At the meeting, it was resolved that Sule Ibrahim's case is genuine and that he is not the only one suffering from lateness. The SBMC decided to hold a meeting with the Mallams who own the Islamiya Schools. The meeting was held but did not result in any positive actions, therefore the case was reported to the district head of Lere Alhaji Abubakar Garba Mohamed who subsequently called for a meeting with all the Malams and addressed the issue. They complied to do as instructed, to keep Islamiya time to a minimum so that the children have enough time to get to their mainstream schools.

This particular case was brought up by Sule Ibrahim but he was not the only child or pupil suffering from corporal punishment due to lateness. With the intervention of SBMC, all children in and around Lere now go to School on time irrespective of Islamiya sessions.

Case Study 3: Teacher Deployment. Dangyatum, Miga LGEA

Interview: Usman Aliyu; Village head and SBMC Chairman, Alhaji Abdullahi Abubakar; Village Imam, Heat teacher; Abdullahi Abdua, Marka Audua; Women's Committee Representative.

Mallam Usman Aliyu the Village head of Dangyatum and Alhaji Abdullahi Abubakar, the village Imam were active in mobilising and securing allowances for volunteer teachers in Dangyatum Special Primary school.

96. Usman Aliyu, the SBMC chairman who is also the village head of Dangyatum mobilises the community SBMC to sit twice a month to write letters to the LGEA and Local Government Chairman. Under his guidance, the SBMC actively seek help for their community schools. In January 2016, Usman Aliyu recently got two of the community members, Malam Sabo Aliyu and Haruna Aliyu to commit to paying an allowance to seven volunteer teachers after the SBMC had succeeded in mobilising these teachers from the school alumni of Dangyatum Special Primary school. The philanthropists contribute N8000 per month per teacher and promised to continue paying them this allowance until they have been recruited by the government under the Jigawa state government's plans to deploy 4,500 teachers across LGEAs in the state.

97. Alhaji Abdullahi Abubakar, the village Imam who was also a teacher in Dangyatum Special Primary School for fourteen years in the past was delighted about the volunteer teacher deployment as teacher shortage had been a major issue for this school. Three years ago he had called for a meeting with the few volunteer teachers at the school and mobilised N3, 000 per teacher allowance to keep them. They were however still limited by hardship and eventually left the school to be manned by the two government teachers based there. The Imam is very pleased with the support from these philanthropists and plans to hold a meeting with SBMC to discuss how the community may be able to get more support from them and other sources.
98. Marka Audua, the Women's representative is pleased that there are more girls in school due to the additional teachers and hopes for the recruitment of more female teachers. Since the school became better equipped with teachers, the women's committee of Dangyatum have been encouraged to speak to mothers about the importance of sending their daughters to school. Following up with homes where girls are absent from school.
99. The head teacher, Abdullahi Abdua said the seven selected volunteers were picked from the community with one holding a diploma in education and all being NCE certificate holders. He is currently writing a thank you letter to the philanthropists paying their allowance. Abdullahi Abdua confirmed that there have been more enrolments since the teacher deployment with the school pupil population now being 629 (347 Male and 282 female). There were previously 519 pupils in the school.
100. Muhammed Ahmed Gurji, the SBMC desk officer added that the teacher deployment at Dangyatum is an indirect positive action of Mohammed Garba Dutse, the District Head of Miga who placed emphasis on the need for SBMCs to mobilise and support schools in their communities at the last SBMC forum. The neighbouring communities have also been encouraged to get more volunteer teachers, taking example from Dangyatum.
101. Rural Education Foundation is the CSO working with Miga LGFA. Hauwa Babayaro, the programme Officer is very pleased at the activities of SBMC in this community particularly with how aggressively they deployed volunteer teachers to the school. She is fond of the Village head who she adds has been accommodating a school drop-out so that the child is able to go to school from his house as the boy had stopped going to school due to the long distance from his parent's home where he was previously living.

Conclusion

102. ESSPIN has supported a partnership of Civil Society and Government to work together to develop the capacity of SBMCs to mobilise communities positively for school improvement, increased access and better learning outcomes across the six ESSPIN states. Traditional rulers and religious leaders have been integral to the intervention from inception due to the enormously influential role they can play in support of education for all children in their communities. They have also benefitted through becoming more informed of the key role they can play and through their enhanced capacities to support children and their schools in the various communities which they govern. They have been galvanised to support SBMCs in their communities in the mobilisation of resources towards enhancing the delivery of education in schools. In many cases, the traditional and religious leaders have made direct contributions to the schools in their communities by giving their own time and energy, supporting inclusive education, resource contributions, advocacy to philanthropists and government and generally building the morale and motivation of children to want to be in school to learn. This report has reflected these contributions in the 22 case studies captured across the ESSPIN States supported by interviews with the traditional and religious leaders themselves, various SBMC members, Head teachers and Social Mobilisation Officers as well as images which were taken at the time of the interviews.

103. AS ESSPIN gradually closes in 2016 it is clear that the SBMCs which have been trained will continue the good work they have begun in supporting schools and the children in their communities. The traditional and religious leaders have clearly been motivated and re-iterate their enthusiasm to continue to do this as best as they can.
